What is a No-Show?

A no-show occurs when a passenger fails to check in and board their scheduled flight without canceling or changing the reservation beforehand.

- Example: If you miss your Dallas → Las Vegas flight without informing Frontier, you're considered a no-show.
- Consequences may include the cancellation of remaining flights on a multi-leg itinerary and potential fees.

 Tip: Always notify Frontier Airlines if you can't make your flight to avoid complications. Call +1-877-622-0707 📞 for guidance.

No-Show Fees and Charges

Frontier Airlines applies fees depending on the ticket type and fare bundle:

- Basic Fare: Non-refundable, no-show results in losing the ticket value.
- Classic/Discount Den Bundles: Partial credits may be available for future travel.
- Fare Bundles with Flexibility: Some bundles allow free changes or rescheduling within a certain time frame.

 For exact no-show fees and options to recover your fare, contact +1-877-622-0707 📞. Agents can explain your ticket's rules and help rebook if necessary.

What Happens If You're a No-Show?

1. Remaining Flights Cancelled: If your itinerary includes multiple legs, missing the first flight may cancel subsequent flights.
2. Ticket Value Lost: Basic fares often do not provide a refund.
3. Rebooking Required: You'll need to pay the difference for a new ticket or reschedule if the fare allows.

4. Baggage: Any checked bags will not be automatically transferred; you must arrange new baggage handling.
